

2013 RISING STARS

EDITOR'S NOTE

Making Their Mark

THE NEW YORK LAW JOURNAL is proud to introduce its inaugural class of Rising Stars, a group of attorneys 40 years old or younger who have already made their mark on the New York legal community.

They represent attorneys from all over the state who work in every sector of the bar—large and small firms, public interest agencies, government and academia. Judging from the nominations submitted on their behalf, these lawyers exhibit superb legal skills, keen judgment, creativity and dedication that have made a lasting impression on their colleagues and clients.

Our Rising Stars handle the most sophisticated securities, antitrust, intellectual property and other matters for some of the world's most powerful corporations, individuals, institutions and government. They also defend the city and state, take on the toughest criminal challenges and represent families in distress. They have written memorable briefs and delivered winning arguments in trial and appellate courts, including the U.S. Supreme Court. They have developed innovative courses and programs and generously share their expertise at forums across the state.

When you read their profiles, you will be struck by their commitment—to their clients, their colleagues, their institutions, their bar groups and to the profession. They tell us in their own words what drives them to become the best lawyers they can be.

This project would not have been possible without the diligence and expertise of our panel of 12 esteemed judges, who had the difficult and time-consuming task of vetting and ranking each nominee from five to one, five being the highest.

The 44 attorneys listed as Rising Stars in this section received the highest ratings of 4.1 and above.

Each of our honorees was recognized at an evening cocktail reception on June 11 at Upstairs at the Kimberly Hotel, 145 E. 50th St.

—Kris Fischer

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, 2013

2013 RISING STARS

Daniel C. Glazer
Partner
Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson

Daniel Glazer is co-head of Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson's technology transactions practice and divides his time equally between the firm's New York and London offices. Dan focuses on complex domestic and cross-border IP/IT transactions in telecommunications, financial services, pharmaceuticals, food and beverage, media and entertainment, and sports.

He handles a broad range of licensing, outsourcing and other IP/IT-focused commercial agreements, as well as the IP/IT aspects of mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, and other complex corporate transactions.

Dan works closely with U.K.-based governmental agencies on trade missions to New York City, and he regularly conducts workshops and produces training guides to assist emerging U.K.-based technology companies expand into the states. He is on the steering committee for and will be presenting at Digital Shoreditch 2013, an annual two-week festival in London for emerging technology companies and entrepreneurs.

Dan has published more than 30 articles, and is a senior editor of The Trademark Reporter.

Pro Bono / Civic Activity

Dan provided IP counseling to End Blindness by 20/20, a worldwide research initiative. During the 2012 London Olympics, he presented at the invitation of the U.K. government at its Global Summit on Information and Communications Technology.

'I feel very fortunate to be in a position where I am constantly challenged and have the ability and encouragement to think outside the box.'

Experience

Fried Frank, 2012-present; Patterson Belknap Webb & Tyler, 2009-2012; Shearman & Sterling, 1999-2009

Education

J.D., Harvard Law School, 1998; A.B., Dartmouth College, 1995

DANIEL C. GLAZER, PARTNER FRIED, FRANK, HARRIS, SHRIVER & JACOBSON LLP